Waveland controversy

Mayor's firing practices questioned; retired employee still on payroll

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Waveland's Ward 4 Alderman Stan Weidman unknowingly exposed continued paychecks to a retired city employee when he insisted during Wednesday's city council meeting that Mayor Stella Frilot explain why Lloyd Bourgeois received a letter of termination from the city.

Frilot asked Weidman if the reason could be discussed other than at an open meeting, saying, "Stan, you do not realize the injustice you are doing to this man."

Twice during the exchange, Frilot suggested the board enter executive session to discuss the matter privately.

every two weeks for 40 hours of work to Lloyd Bourgeois, though no time card or any record of job description was kept.

Frilot explained the payment supposedly went to Bourgeois to lock-up the Elwood Bourgeois Park, though another person had been doing that job.

She added the person the board knew as custodian was released from that responsibility when a timer for the lights had been installed several months ago, along with reassignment of the gate locking to a police patrol.

During the November 21 meeting, it was reported that Bernard Tusa, custodian for Bourgeois, a cousin to Weidman, had received a letter of termination this month for a job which the mayor said "did not exist."

The mayor produced for the board a written statement by city bookkeeper Pat Warman and read that Warman was instructed by the previous bookkeeper, during the former administration, to issue a check

Elwood Bourgeois park, appeared before the board to ask that the tennis courts be closed earlier than 11 p.m.

Tusa had explained to the board at the November meeting that during the winter months few people used the courts late into the night. As a matter of convenience he asked that if no one was using the courts he might lock-up earlier.

As reported on November 28, "The board decided to continue with the 11 p.m. closing time, but to instruct a policeman to check the courts at 10 p.m. If they are not in use, the patrolman will close them at that time."

"If the courts are in use, the officer on patrol at 11 will check and close the courts, thereby freeing Tusa from the responsibility."

Weidman, ignoring the implication of Bourgeois' employment continued to question the insensitivity of the administration to notify a man that he has lost his job through the mail.

Weidman pointed out as an example, a woman in the audience who had earlier in the meeting addressed Frilot directly asking why her husband had been fired.

Frilot, at that time, asked that the woman speak with her following the meeting when she

Pincus, Fisher: Land sale rumor still lacks substance

BY TRACI BONNEY

It still isn't true.

Aperiodically recycled rumor of property sales on Beach Boulevard to dockside gambling operations, or related businesses continues to have as little substance as it did when it started, according to those who supposedly have sold their property.

Barry Pincus of Bay Crafts said, "It's b—s---. Not one word of it is true."

When asked if Dock of the Bay, the main property named in the rumor, had been sold, Melva Fisher (wife of owner Jerry Fisher) said it has not. She laughed and commented about the rumor that "the last I hear, it was up to $4 million or a blank check, whichever you'd go for."

"No, there is no truth at all to the rumor. None whatsoever."

Noland sale deeds for Dock of the Bay or any other Beach Boulevard property have been filed at the county courthouse, according to deputy clerk Shakira Shabazz.

Neither have any dredging permit applications been filed with the Bureau of Marine Resources, according to BMR spokesman Gary Cuevas.

Cuevas added that there have been no dredging permit applications filed for Hancock County by any dockside gambling operation, except for one for access channel maintenance by Bay Cove Harbour.

Metro bomb search team forms

BY TRACI BONNEY

The members of the newly-formed county bomb search team will be able to search out explosives, report them, even piece together the fragments of a blown-up bomb while conducting an investigation.

However, these officers are not supposed to disarm bombs.

The Metropolitan Bomb Search Team of Hancock County, formed in response to recent bomb threats at local industries, is being trained to look for bombs, both unexploded and exploded, and to use information gathered from the searches to track down bombers and would-be bombers.

The 12-member team is composed of law enforcement officials from the county sheriff's department, the Bay St. Louis and Waveland police departments.

Most of those members, along with some employees from the plant, the target of a recent bomb threat, attended an eight-hour seminar taught by two specialists from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms at Bay High School last week.

Agents Rodger Shanks and Alan Futvoye briefed the search members and others on the makeup of a bomb, recognition of key components and the physics behind an explosion.

Shanks told the men that the fire, smoke and noise one usually expects with a fuse burning are just Hollywood special effects. "Those kinds of fuses haven't been used since 1920," he commented.

Most fuses used today burn internally, showing few signs of being consumed except for a little smoke and some bubbling of the fuse's outer casing, Shanks said.

He explained to the participants that when a bomb explodes, it leaves behind fragments that can be used to track down the bomb's maker. A bit of fuse, an empty blasting cap, part of a detonator—in many cases, these and other bomb components can be traced to the manufacturer or store where they were sold, and thus to the suspect.

Shanks told the class about 16 that when someone discovers a bomb he should not try to disarm it, but should notify his superiors, who in turn will notify the Explosive Ordnance Disposal unit. The officers should then determine if there is a need to evacuate the building.

County school board changes hiring policy for sub-teachers

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Hancock County School Board met briefly Wednesday to change district policy on the hiring of substitute teachers.

Until Wednesday, substitute teachers had to be hired from within the county, unless there were no qualified personnel to be found.

The change enables the district to hire outside the county when the substitute teacher has at least a bachelor's degree.

Assistant Superintendent Eddie Danzey explained, "This change will give us the opportunity to place a more qualified person in the classroom."

An additional change was to require that all substitute teachers, teacher aides, teacher assistants and monitors show proof of a high school diploma or an equivalent.

The three-member board also approved the purchase of four 66-passenger school buses for a total of $122,859.

Lennette Necaise was acting president in the absence of Frank Miller. Carol Bustetter and Charles Ray Thomas were also present for the special meeting.

The board adjourned until May 6 at 5:30 p.m.

Conflict christens new Waveland board room

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Waveland's newly completed board room was a hot spot of conflict during the Wednesday city meeting.

Ward 4 Alderman Stan Weidman objected to the expense of objects purchased and labor contracted for renovations of city hall and the newly finished meeting area in the annex building.

On reviewing the bi-monthly docket, Weidman questioned the necessity of spending $510 for two chairs.

Friolot said the chairs were for guests in the reception area of city hall.

Weidman then asked for an explanation concerning a $934 charge for draperies and asked if the cost included the material.

Friolot told him the expense was for the seamstress to make all the draperies and the cornices for city hall, the board room and the building inspector's offices. She also said her husband donated the material.

Ward 1 Alderman Barbara Rappold asked if there was not a resolution passed that bills were to be discussed with the purchasing agent Jean Askew before the meeting.

Weidman apologized to the board and said he was unable to arrive prior to the meeting that evening.

He then questioned six payments to Aaron Wilkinson for sewer repairs.

After Friolot explained that the repairs were done throughout the course of a month on various lift stations which broke down during heavy rains, Weidman asked if the city could buy spare pumps so when one fails "we could drop it in the hole when needed?"

Friolot answered, "I am not putting a city worker in a hole that is sometimes 14-foot deep and filled with water, who is not an electrician."

Weidman suggested the city might save money by hiring Wilkinson on a full-time basis.

Friolot said the city was working on several projects now to solve these problems. She referred to the newly-acquired $1 million FHA loan, the "201" study for a $500,000 state loan and a $500,000 federal grant presently being sought. Sewer repairs have been recently contracted along Amar Street, Central Avenue, Old Spanish Trail and Beach Boulevard.

She added with the completion of these projects, the need for emergency repair calls will be few and far between.

Friolot then told the audience she did not want anyone to think there was mismanagement of funds going on at city hall.

Standing and extracting a group of papers from Askew's file, she held the papers in full view for the audience and explained how each sheet represented a documented process of ordering, receiving and billing. She invited any resident to review the city's bills should he have a question or the desire.

"This is not a loose ship," Friolot commented. "We have very tight checks and balances."

The bills were approved when Aldermen Rappold, Hubbard and Colson overrode Weidman's objections to the costs for chairs and draperies.

Friolot took time from the meeting to thank the people who contributed to making the Board of Aldermen's new meeting room a reality.

Among those credited were City of Waveland Firemen, especially Chief David Garcia and Mike Smith; Charles Piazza; Jim Bonner and Noel Phillips; Tom Cottom and Mike Mayo; Carol Young; Nina Garcia; Joanne Colson and Ward 3 Alderman Curtis P. "Phil" Colson; George Bensabat; George Friolot; Arcelyn "Dee" Dastugue; Ward 2 Alderman Bob Hubbard; Ward 1 Alderman Barbara Rappold; and Peterman's Lil' Super.

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The American Cancer Society's Hancock County Red Beans 'n Rice cookoff will be Monday, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Christ Episcopal's Virginia Hall, 912 S. Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis.

Tickets, at a donation of $5 each, will be available at the door or from the participating restaurants, Cancer Society board members, The Sea Coast Echo, Chamber of Commerce or from Jeanne Anne's Hallmark.

The famous cooks of local restaurants will be vying for The People's Choice award.

Among the local restaurants' famous cooks participating in the cookoff will be Angie's, The Cat House, Court Stree Cuisine, Diamondhead Qualidome Resort, Dock of the Bay, Lil' Ray's, Mary's Eatery, Olde Towne Cafe and The Reef.

Patrons will be asked to vote for their recipe on the back of their tickets.

Members of the local Cancer Society have been working for some time to bring this fund raiser, and I am hoping it will be a success.

Red beans 'n rice goes well with coleslaw, so Layne's Krispy Chicken, Williams Pit Barbecue and The Cat House will be providing it, and bread will be supplied by Bay St. Louis and Waveland groceries.

The coordinators for this event are Anne Schmidt and Janet McQueen.

I will be there to cast my vote, and I understand there will be some very good eating going on.

Monday is the day set aside for the observance of Girl Scout Leaders' Day.

Our local Girl Scouts are part of the Gulf Pines Council, which involves some 3,000 adults who are active in Girl Scouting.

The Council covers 15 of Mississippi's southern counties, including Hancock.

In Hancock County there are many adult leaders, some who have been involved in Girl Scouting programs for years, while there are others who are just beginning.

It would only be fitting for you on Monday to say Thank You to any Girl Scout leader you may encounter.

Girl Scouting is now in its 79th year and getting stronger each year.

Girl Scouts understand that self-reliance, self-esteem and leadership experiences are three of the most important gifts a girl can receive.

One way girls can receive these gifts is through the continued dedication of Girl Scout leaders today, tomorrow, next year and in years to come.

Hats off to Girl Scout Leaders.

Hancock industry among state's offering new jobs

Our state is the envy of the nation in so many areas.

Whether it's the richness of our land or the friendliness of our people, Mississippi has a lot to offer for those who are thinking about doing business with our state, expanding their businesses or creating jobs for Mississippians.

One such example of Mississippi's open-for-business policy comes from two little known statistics that tell a lot about our economic climate.

Earlier this year, two different national periodicals measured our state in economic terms. And Mississippi received high marks when it came to jobs and financial progress.

According to the March, 1991 issue of State Policy Reports, Mississippi ranks number one in new manufacturing plants per capita for 1990.

The state led the nation with 35.2 new plants per million population. That is more than double our nearest competitor, Kentucky, which weighed in with 16 facilities per million population.

In the Article, State Policy Reports characterizes new plant announcements as "the single most useful indicator of how the state is doing in economic competition."

Our top ranking affirms the economic development strides Mississippi is making in bringing new industry to the state, which translates to thousands of jobs for Mississippians and economic growth for the state overall.

More good news came in February from the magazine Site Selection.

This time, Mississippi ranked fourth in the 1990 Top Ten States for new industrial facilities and expansions per capita.

According to the Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development 1990 New and Expanded Facilities Report, Mississippi had 664 new and expanded facility announcements, which created 16,540 jobs and had a combined estimated capital investment of $977 million.

A few of those new and expanded facility announcements during 1990 included:

* Borden, Inc., which will manufacture, store, and distribute packaged food condiments and related products at its new Jackson facility. Borden, Inc., will add 400 new jobs with a $30 million capital investment.

* Calgon Carbon Corporation, which will supply activated carbon used in environmental applications, will make a new capital investment of $65 million and 60 new jobs at its Bay St. Louis facility.

* Tecumseh Products, Plant No. 2 is creating 250 new jobs by constructing a new $50 million air conditioner compressor manufacturing facility in Tupelo.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Baptist Church supported by tithes alone, not games

Dear Editor:

In his Letter to the Editor on Sunday, April 14, Mr. Larry Smith Jr. said, "As a matter of fact, First Baptist Church on Main Street was selling chances for a doll on Saturday, April 6."

The only element of fact in his statement is that First Baptist Church is on Main Street.

His claim that our church family "was selling chances for a doll" is both untrue and irresponsible. Mr. Smith's doll and chances are make-believe, they do not exist.

Also, Mr. Smith charges that "churches have used games of chance to gather support financially for years."

Some churches have. But First Baptist Church, Bay St. Louis, has not. We believe that scripture teaches a divine design for financing the ministry of the church. That design does not include games of chance or other such methods.

God's plan for financing His church in this world is through the tithes (one-tenth of a person's income) and additional offerings of His people. For the Christian, such giving is not a burden; it is a privilege.

Bishop Howze distorts facts in his statement on gambling

Dear Editor,

I feel compelled to respond to the letter by Bishop Joseph Howze dated April 12. I fully understand that the church has never condemned gambling and calls for moderation; however, he continues to push what compulsive gambling is by definition. By implication, his bias is projected onto the general public. Compulsive anything is a sin; overeating, stealing, lying, etc. are sinful acts.

One must look to scripture and be reminded that there are numerous accounts in the Old and New Testament, when casting lots was not only permitted, but was actually seen as spiritually influenced! The twelve apostles cast lots to find out who was to replace Judas. (Acts 1:26)

While I can appreciate the synopsis of The Commission on the Review of the National Policy Toward Gambling, I cannot seem to find where this information came from, since the source was not cited. Therefore, I must refute this by exposing some facts of my own.

First, The Vatican II Documents, Gaudium Et Spes, Sec. 64 p. 917, states that "For God willed that a man should be left in the hand of his own counsel, so that he might, of his own accord, seek his creation and freely attain his full and blessed perfection by cleaving to him. Man's dignity therefore requires him to act out of conscious and free choice, as moved and drawn in a personal way from within, and not by blind impulses in himself or by mere external constraint." "Before the judgement seat of God an account of his own life will be rendered to each one according as he has done either good or evil."

Second, I think it sad he exploited Glenn Mitchell, chairman of Citizens for Quality Life by sending diocese letters trying to stop the gaming issue.

Again, Bishop Howze asserted not only his biased opinion but that of a well-known fundamentalist extremist. This is not only deceptive, but shows a convenient alliance to support his view.

Pastor refutes interpretations from Bible in regard to gambling

To the Editor:

In a letter to the editor in the April 11 Sea Coast Echo, there were several Biblical and ethical questions raised concerning the activities within our community by some of the "shepherds" or pastors within our community in regard to our opposition to casino (floating or otherwise) gambling.

Unfortunately these issues were addressed with misinformation and limited Biblical understanding. I feel it is in the best interest of your readers for me to address these issues.

I will take these issues in the order they were mentioned in the letter. In regard to prayer as "a weapon in their arsenal against gambling," the writers wondered, "Why didn't Jesus just end it the easy way if he is so interested in the gambling issue?"

The answer is multi-faceted. First, Jesus is not our puppet; we are His servants. It is our responsibility to pray to Him to answer in His time and manner. To deny this denies the sovereignty of God.

Secondly, winning the election would not be a gambling thing; it would only have the stage for another election in a month to bring this to an end. The law itself must be changed.

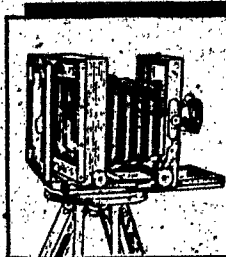

Third, a cursory reading of the Bible would show that Abraham, Jacob, Elijah, Daniel, and the Apostle Paul all prayed for extended periods of time before God answered their prayers. Are we to assume from this that "these crusaders are not his people at all?" Be real, we know these were men of God.

Fourth, God builds character in His people by how they stand against opposition. All of the men mentioned above developed character by standing firm in their beliefs, not by getting instantaneous answers to every prayer.

Another point was made that "There is not one scriptural precedent for 'shepherds' going into the courts to do battle for or against anything." Perhaps then someone can explain to me what Moses was doing the dozen times he went before pharaoh (the court of Egypt) to attain the release of the children of Israel.

Perhaps someone can also explain why Jesus in Luke 18:8 said of the ancients with the unjust judge, where the widow went before him continually, "I tell you, he will see that she gets justice, and then Jesus told His Disciples to be of that same mind."

A public building for Bay St. Louis is the latest. Congressman Pat Harrison, who is ceaseless and untiring in his efforts for the interest he represents, has introduced a bill in Congress seeking to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase a site for a "public building at Bay St. Louis," to cost the Government not in excess of $10,000.

Claude Monti, resident representative of the Chevrolet Automobile, received a carload of these cars last week, and his sales have been so active he will have to order another. Mr. Monti personally guarantees the Chevrolet and will be glad to demonstrate the car.

The office of a (Bay St. Louis) street commissioner seems to be the central attraction of the public mind just now and has so been for time past, so much so that the first ordinance created by the new board of mayor and aldermen was to stipulate what that official should do, how he should perform the duties of his calling. He shall, which is a splendid move and one long and strenuously advocated by The Echo, see that all sidewalks and banquettes be put and kept in proper shape and order and expense same to be borne by the owner. He shall hand weekly to the chairman of the street committee a weekly report, and consult said committee man about the work to be performed the following week. His time is set from 7 a.m. to 12 p.m., and from 1 to 6 p.m., and for any violation shall not be fined less than $5 nor more than $25. The salary attached to the office shall be $25 monthly and the privilege is given to run one cart for which hire the city will allow $2.50.

* Some of the other cities that will see expansions are Flowood, Laurel and Vicksburg. In those three cities, expansions will total over $100 million dollars in capital investments and nearly 600 new jobs.

These statistics are great news for the entire state of Mississippi, and we're hopeful that 1991 will continue to see the trend of growth that we have experienced since 1988.

The Mississippi story is beginning to be told nationwide, and as more and more businesses find out about our state, they're looking to us when they consider relocating or expanding. And that's some good news that every Mississippian can take to the bank.

mind set. Both Moses and the widow went to court several times and were given to the church as examples. So there is Biblical precedent for pastors (shepherds) going to court.

The third point to address is that Jesus did not get a lawyer for His own trial. There are two reasons for this: one, He was fulfilling prophecy that said Jesus would be, "like a sheep before its shearers is dumb (silent)," the other reason... was because under both Jewish and Roman law His trial was illegal, therefore He was not allowed a lawyer.

The next area addressed was the definition of "pure religion" as defined in James 2:27. I totally agree with the Word of God, pure religion is, "to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction and to keep oneself unspotted from the world."

When we consider the growing number of people suffering from gambling addiction, the spin-off industries of gambling: prostitution, drunkenness, muggings and street crime (every area that has opened casinos in the last two decades has seen a marked increase in all of these), and the fact that casinos operate on the premise that the vast majority of players must lose; it is obvious that this is an affliction to many and opposition to gambling does come under the James 2:27 definition of pure religion. Actually, ignoring such a devastating thing would be to become spotted by an ungodly world view.

The next argument dumps the "religious" and Catholics into the same bag and implies all of us are hypocrites. Not all "religious" people are Catholic and not all "religious" people or Catholics support or endorse gambling, even in the form of Bingo.

By the way, the Mississippi Supreme Court has ruled that Bingo is not a lottery and therefore is not illegal, nor has it been illegal, under the laws of this state. The statement, "The Catholics have been operating an illegal gambling operation for years" is totally false. I do not endorse Bingo, but I do endorse accuracy in statements prepared for public review. It is also interesting to note that there are no Catholic clergymen named as plaintiffs in this current lawsuit. To assume that all pastors endorse Bingo, raffles, or other such games of chance is nothing less than religious bias and bigotry.

Of course no discussion of the involvement of pastors in community affairs would be complete without the old stand-by, "the majority of voters voted for it." Pastors must operate from a scriptural viewpoint and perspective. God does not, has not,

1355th Support Group meeting set Wednesday

A meeting of the 1355th Mississippi National Guard Support Group will be Wednesday, April 24, 7 p.m. at the Amory Barracks, Bay St. Louis. Donnie Overall, senior coordinator for Detachment One of the 1355th, reports a video will be shown of the unit at work in Bosnia. All are invited.

and will not hold an election on righteousness. The majority is not automatically right.

A majority of scientists once believed the world was flat and the sun revolved around the earth. A majority of German voters elected Adolf Hitler. A majority of U.S. Representatives and U.S. Senators voted for the 3/5 Compromise which essentially said a black man was only 60 percent of the value of a white man. All of these majorities were wrong. Jesus Christ expects his pastors to stand up for what is right, without regard to the popularity of that stand.

The last charge in the letter is that "shepherds," i.e. pastors, are opposing only to "make names for themselves." Let us take a look at the "names" we have made for ourselves. My house has been watched by a man with a camera, waiting for something scandalous to happen. I have been followed when I go from my home to the church. I have been cursed and called by every obscene name you can imagine. I have been the recipient of numerous obscene gestures. I have been threatened. I have been subjected to inane attacks on my character, motives, honor and profession. If that is "making a name" I would prefer to remain anonymous.

Pastors do not need to make names for themselves. The Bible clearly tells us that "promotion comes not from the east or from the west but from the Lord." Pastors, "shepherds," only want to lift up, exalt, and glorify the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, the name that is above every name. Sometimes, in the course of doing that we make some people unhappy, but we do it anyway because it is right!

Third, the state of Nevada, whose total revenues of 4.7 billion won't be facing a budget deficit this year because gaming taxes, which make up 40 percent of the state budget, showed a 16 percent revenue increase with a budget surplus of 110 million dollars. This surplus, by the way, helped bail out the state's three welfare deficits of 12.5 million and due to the fact that enrollment in their schools climbed from 4.5 to 8 percent covered the financial support for each student (Carson City Nevada appeal Dec. 2, 1990.)

Fourth, between Nov. 1, 1990 and Oct. 14, 1990 South Dakota's visitors gambled 218.5 million dollars, and hotel and motel accommodations rose five times the norm. "We had our backs against the wall until gambling came along. But since then, it's been wonderful," said Walsh, 51, a former Catholic priest who calls casino gambling "a step beyond bingo." (Cleveland, Ohio) Plain Dealer, Oct. 14, 1990.

Fifth, you may be interested to know that in his fifth issue of "News From the Top," Rev. Clyde Rogers states that his church's land value has spiraled and his church attendance has tripled! In fact, he has to have a new, larger church building.

Sixth, I see Bishop Howze creating a rift within the church by not supporting our parish priest. The last time a moral issue like this came to bear, it caused the split of the Baptist into the First and Southern Baptist over the slavery issue. I, of course, know he is well versed in this, since he is a convert from the Baptist faith.

The Catholic church has wheels of fortune, grab bags, dart games, raffles, etc. All of these games of chance try to help out the church financially. Should we cancel our fairs?

Seventh, the total number of welfare recipients in Hancock County (Department of Human Services) is 3,587 people. This county has a population of 31,760 (South Mississippi Planning and Development Commission of Gulfport) which leaves our county with an 11.29 percent population on welfare due to the economic hardships. Gambling could cut this in half and create an entirely new atmosphere for our economy and education.

In conclusion, I find it rather paradoxical that the bishop wants antigambling educational programs in both schools and churches. You see, if we were to really educate the general public, it would be to the benefit of gambling and the overwhelming facts, which support it.

Concerned,

NASA develops monitoring plans for ASRM

Special to the Echo
NASA has completed and submitted two of the 11 environmental monitoring plans for the Advanced Solid Rocket Motor (ASRM) test program at the John C. Stennis Space Center.

The plans are required by the Air Pollution Control permit issued by the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) last December.

NASA and contractor environmental personnel are actively developing extensive monitoring plans to ensure that human health and the environment will be fully protected when ASRM testing begins in April 1994.

The accomplishment of the field and laboratory work required by the plans will establish a comprehensive environmental data base which will be used to monitor all ASRM test activities. The monitoring program will ensure that NASA meets the stringent and comprehensive permit restrictions established by the DEQ.

"The ASRM monitoring program will measure and assess the condition of our environment to an unprecedented degree before we ever fire the first motor," said Stennis Space Center director Roy Estess. "This will enable NASA and the state to evaluate any environmental changes."

The plans include surface water monitoring, wetlands monitoring, groundwater monitoring, meteorological forecasting, plant and animal stress monitoring, alternative control technology study, contingency and emergency response, public notification, operational air monitoring, rainfall monitoring and plume constituent sampling.

"A significant portion of our budget is being spent to ensure that this test program in no way adversely affects our environment," said Lon Miller, ASRM project manager at Stennis.

NASA will closely monitor the air, soil and water quality in and around the test facility at Stennis leading up to the first ASRM test firing.

Scientists will then be able to detect changes and determine the effect, if any, the exhaust from ASRM test firings is having on these areas once testing begins. Proper environmental permits were needed from the state because the burning of solid propellants from the motors will emit hydrogen chloride and aluminum oxide into the air.

The DEQ issued permits for air emissions, water discharge and water certification last December.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers issued a wetlands permit in January 1991 allowing NASA to begin construction on the ASRM facility.

The air permit—the most stringent permit issued for the ASRM program—sets forth 24 specific restrictions called Emission Limitations and Monitoring Requirements.

Violation of any of the restrictions could result in enforcement action and halting of any test activities.

NASA plans to conduct no more than four ASRM test firings per year lasting about two minutes each. Throughout the life of the permit, state and federal regulatory officials will actively participate in the review and evaluation process of the program.

All reports prepared under the terms of the permit will be available to the public at the DEQ office in Jackson.

Waveland ready to advertise for Ward 1 sewer work bids

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Waveland's Board of Aldermen authorized Ray Eaton of Eaton & Associates, city engineer and planner, to begin advertisement for bids on sewer work which will encompass most of Ward 1.

Ward 1 Alderman Barbara Rappold, who made the motion to advertise, said the board had been working on this particular project for more than four years. Eaton said approximately 160 homes in Ward 1 will receive sewer service along with 10 homes on Margie Street and eight to nine homes from Rue de LaSalle and Hubbard Street. The advertisement will run for 45 days. In other business, the board approved:

—the abandonment of five feet of Fell Street to help James M. Bulger with the selling of his home. Bulger's home, built in 1924, overlaps onto the city right-of-way. For this reason the Bulgers were unable to sell the property.

—that Waveland Housing Authority be forgiven for back taxes for 1986, 1987 and 1988. City attorney Lucien Gex gave an opinion concerning the Housing Authority which states the Authority by law "may" pay taxes. "It does not say they must," Gex explained.

—a personnel policy update, which describes vacation time, hospitalization insurance, sick leave, holidays, etc.

Other issues discussed were dumping in the city cemetery; the purchase of a new tape recorder for city council meetings; replacement of worn city signs; sidewalk repair at Elwood Bourgeois Park, with protection guaranteed for tree roots; the cleaning of the ditches on the north side of the railroad tracks by CSX Transportation; summer rentals of homes to more than one family when the zoning laws permitted one-family residency only; and the installation of two street lights.

said she would discuss it with her in private.

Weidman proposed a resolution whereby Bourgeois would be called to appear before the board and honored for his years of service to the city.

Friol said, "He has been honored. He has been receiving a check."

Weidman addressed Ward 1 Alderman Bob Hubbard asking him to second his motion to honor Bourgeois since "he is in your ward."

Hubbard said, "I second the motion."

Friol held a vote. Ward 1 Alderman Barbara Rappold voted "no," saying she objected for it might "set a precedent" to where anyone who worked for the city past 20 years, good service or bad, may be honored.

Ward 3 Alderman Curtis P. "Phil" Colson said he had a problem with the resolution selecting Bourgeois as the honoree.

Weidman said, "Let's make it anyone who has worked for the city over 20 years."

"We should give them a plaque...maybe a gold watch," Friol asked to continue the vote.

Colson voted "Yea."

Weidman voted "Yes."

The resolution was reread, it was as Weidman first said, specifying Bourgeois.

Colson said no, he had voted for the resolution to honor all workers over 20 years. Weidman joined with Colson in the confusion as to what they just voted for.

Friol said the first motion was on the floor and was being voted on. No order of motion to rescind the original motion could be made until the first vote was completed.

Friol then vetoed the resolution to honor Bourgeois.

No other motion was made at this time and the board continued onto other business.

Weidman questioned Friol's authority to hire and fire city employees without consent of the board.

City attorney Lucien Gex was asked by Friol to explain to Weidman the mayor's authority.

Gex said it was written in the city charter that the employees serve at the mayor's discretion.

On Life

Give God room to work

The column was half done, and I had a distinctly high feeling because, for the first time in months, I was actually a bit ahead of schedule.

"The other half I can finish this afternoon," I thought to myself. "Then tomorrow, I can do a second column and, by George, it just looks as if it's not unrealistic to figure on completing all five of the April columns by week's end."

I should have known better. All of you, no doubt, can concur with me, feel with me, resonate with me when I say it is definitely true: "The best laid plans of mice and men oft go awry." It is equally true: "Man proposes; God disposes."

Having encountered this same situation innumerable times, one would have thought this puny brain would at last have come to understand that our time is not necessarily the best time, even when we are operating at ease, ahead of schedule, and with what we think are good ideas. Or, shall we say, especially then.

The old gospel hymn tells it best in admonishing us that God may not come when we want God or summon God, but God is always on time.

The only problem here is that our perception of "on time" is usually very different from God's. For us, on time means at our convenience and when we feel an urgent need for acting now.

Thus, it came to pass that the half-finished column sat in the word processor for several days before another word was added to it.

People came to the door asking for food, counsel and shelter. People called on the phone requesting those same things, or seeking the warm tones of a friendly voice to make the world go away momentarily.

Others called, apparently, just to experience the relative rarity of a willing, reassuring ear.

Every time I turned my thoughts toward the column once more, something else invariably got in the way. There was an unforeseen errand or other to run, or there was one of those predictably unpredictable breakdowns of equipment somewhere on the property.

Worse, I was collared to referee a controversy between a racially neurotic activist/militant individual and a neighborhood group, both of whom say that they have no ax to grind and that they have the best interests of the neighborhood at heart.

All those things are well and good, and it is one of the marks of being a part of God's reign to become involved in them. Nevertheless, the half-column still stuck in my craw, until one day, finally, some daylight broke through and I was able to resume.

To my utter surprise, even though experience told me that this should not have been any surprise at all, that which ensued was a much better column with many richer ideas and with more meaningful, down-to-earth applications.

God had not come when I called on God, when I thought I needed God's instant action so badly, so urgently and in a given way. It was enough to make me wonder about the divine whereabouts.

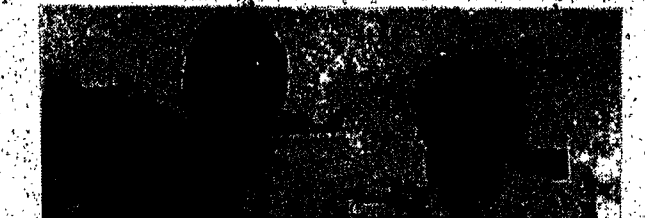

Yet, when I least suspected it, God did come, and right on time, in plenty of time, with more than I had requested in the first place.

"Why did I bridle God again?" I asked myself. "Why have I not learned by now that the awkward workings of the human mind are no match for God's inspiration?"

"Why don't I follow with my whole heart the identical advice which I give constantly to all who come my way? Let God work it out!"

Give God a little room to operate! Don't let the folly of your human wisdom interfere with the mysterious, wondrous actions of God! Swallow your pretentious pride, and let God take over!

PARDON OUR PROGRESS!

DESIGNATED PARKING AREAS TO IMPROVE PATIENT/VISITOR PARKING DURING CONSTRUCTION

During the construction of our four-story Medical Office Building and Parking Garage, Slidell Memorial Hospital has taken steps to ensure patient and visitor parking will be adequate and easily accessed on the hospital campus.

Designated parking areas exclusively for patients and visitors have been added on the Florida Avenue side of the Slidell Memorial Hospital campus. All employees will be parking off-campus to provide the maximum number of on-campus parking spots for our patients and visitors.

These changes should ease parking constraints caused by the construction on the Gause Boulevard side of our campus. We want to make every effort to provide convenient parking facilities for our patients and visitors.

Construction of our Medical Office Building and Parking Garage will begin in April and continue through July 1992. As we enter this period of additional growth, we ask your continued support and patience. If you have any questions about the new parking areas, please call our Public Relations Department at (504) 649-8510.

Christian writers sought for anthology publication

The American Arts Association is collecting poems and prose for a special anthology titled Praise Him, a book of praise to our Lord Jesus Christ. If you have one or two works you would like to have considered, send them to:

American Arts Association, (Eastern United States), 102 Estes Drive, Gulfport, MS 39503.

The American Arts Association is a group of some 1,000 Christian literary artists from Maine to Washington, North Dakota to Texas who enjoy the relating of God's word in the form of poetry and prose.

"It is through this sharing of God's gifts that we are able to give spiritual and emotional support to missionaries through the world," said Joel Cook, spokesman.

No literary work is printed without a signed release from the author granting one-time publication rights.

"We lay no claim to any poem or prose. All rights are retained by the author. The American Arts is dedicated to furthering the work of our Lord through assisting Christian writers in getting their literary work printed," said Cook.

New logo designates recyclable glass

Pepsi, Prego and Heinz Ketchup containers don't look green but they are. All of these products are "green" or environmentally-friendly because they are packaged in glass containers which are 100 percent recyclable.

To help consumers identify glass containers as the environmentally-friendly package, many products are now carrying a recycling G logo on product labels.

The logo is a G for "glass" with an arrow to indicate that glass recycles again and again.

Some of the major brands currently carrying the logo include:

- Pepsi-Cola Products: All 16-ounce non-refillable bottles and shelf-talkers
- Prego Spaghetti Sauce, All varieties
- Kraft, Inc.: Barbecue sauce (all varieties)
- Heinz: Ketchup, Vinegar
- Borden, Inc.: Real Lemon, Real Lime, Mincemeat
- Maxwell House: Instant coffee (all varieties)
- Mountain Valley Spring Water: Various products

Since the logo was developed by the Glass Packaging Institute two years ago, the number of companies using the logo has tripled, and the Glass Packaging Institute expects a continued interest in the logo on the part of consumers, manufacturers and retailers.

The industry developed the logo to encourage consumers to buy recyclable packaging and then to recycle glass containers.

"With 75 percent of Americans now considering themselves environmentalists, it is important to provide them with environmental information about the packaging they buy," said Lewis D. Andrews Jr., president of the Glass Packaging Institute.

The glass industry promotes recycling programs and educational efforts through the Southeast Glass Recycling Program—a non-profit trade association supported by the men and women who make glass containers.

For more information about glass recycling, contact:

David Baker, Southeast Glass Recycling Program, P. O. Box 5951, Clearwater, FL 34618.

Blood Drive planned at Hancock High School

A blood drive will be held Friday, April 26 in the Commons of Hancock High School from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m., sponsored by The Student Council and SADD.

With a goal of 75 pints set by the clubs, many students are expected to donate blood. Since Hancock County has failed to meet its quota in previous years, the public is invited to help the students not only meet their goal but surpass the anticipated 75 pints.

Garden Isles Community Association

At a recent meeting, the Garden Isles Community Association members decided to work toward the construction of a club house. This building will be constructed on two lots near the corner of Main and Bay roads. These lots were recently acquired by the association.

A special committee was appointed to hold a garage sale on their property, Saturday, April 27, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Proceeds from the sale will be donated for the construction fund. In the evening, a fund-raising event will be held at the Garden Isles Club.

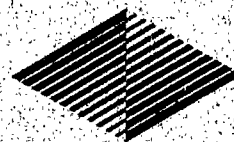

It is the duty of the association to help in the development of the community and make it a better, more desirable place to live.

Food for the heart

Make-A-Wish reaches out to area children

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

For the past six years, a small group of volunteers with the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Mississippi has succeeded in providing nourishment of the heart to 75 coastal children suffering with life threatening illnesses.

The Make-A-Wish Foundation of Mississippi is headquartered in Biloxi. From around the state and neighboring Louisiana office has granted eight wishes so far this year and plans to fulfill 40 before the end of the year.

The Biloxi chapter has yet to serve a child of Hancock County.

Hopefully, it is because Hancock County has been blessed with no child suffering from a life threatening illness, but more than likely, it is because the parents

The only criteria for granting a wish is that the child be under 18 and that the wish be solely the child's. The Foundation goes to great lengths to ensure the wish is the child's and not the parent's.

Following verification of a life threatening illness by a doctor, interviews are conducted with parents and child and then individually. Once the wish is established, the foundation goes to work putting it together.

Many of the wishes are simple, the Foundation volunteers reported. The most expensive wish to date is the Disney World trip.

"It is also one of the most popular wishes," Moran added.

Simple wishes are T.V.s, VCRs, bicycles and computers. These are usually purchased at a discount. "Most people give what they can," Moran added.

The group tries to make the wish a special day. For instance, a three-year-old who wants a red fire truck will have his truck, and a day when he will be made a "real fireman."

Thoughts on how a child will best benefit from a gift are carefully considered.

"A gift like a VCR," elaborated Moran, "is useless without a T.V. Usually the only television in the house is the family one, and then the VCR becomes the property of the family and not the child."

"So the Foundation gives the child the VCR, a T.V. of his own, blank tapes so he may record programs, and cartoon tapes or movie tapes to get him started. This way the gift becomes the child's."

The Biloxi office has just fulfilled a wish for 11-year-old Ami, of Florence, whose dream was to see and meet "The New Kids on the Block."

Bryant described, "We said, "She will not commit to us."

"She wakes up every day with a different wish."

Bryant interpreted Felicia's inability to decide, as a wish in itself. "I think she has her wish, by waking up every day and being able to make a new one."

Last year, Moran reported, 25 or 26 wishes were granted by the Mississippi chapter.

"Sometimes we lose a child before the wish can be granted," Bryant added.

The children are placed in an order of priority depending on the degree of the illness.

In the history of the Mississippi chapter of the Make-A-Wish Foundation, Moran said, "We never had anyone not get a wish because of money."

"We hope that we get put out of business," Bryant said. "We hope one day there are no children to do this for. We hope every child gets well."

The Mississippi chapter has 20 regular volunteers and is in need of more.

The Mississippi chapter will be holding membership meetings, every third Tuesday of the month, at the Gulf Coast Community Hospital in Biloxi in hopes that people with time to contribute might come by and meet the people involved.

The group also asks that any parent or friend of a child in need of a wish to be granted, contact the Biloxi foundation.

where there is no chapter, calls come in from hospitals, medical personnel and sometimes parents relating the plight of a child who may not have a tomorrow.

Volunteers spend much of their time in fund raising activities and publicity efforts.

The average wish per child costs $2,500 to fulfill, estimates Richard Moran, president of the Mississippi chapter. Moran said the Biloxi involved are unaware of the foundation, explained Karen Bryant, president-elect of the chapter.

Bryant said many parents are so busy with the medical realities of daily treatments and care that the importance of fulfilling a wish becomes obviously secondary to improved health.

"Then there is the denial factor," stated Bryant. "For a parent to admit that their child is to receive 'one last wish' is like giving up all hope."

arranged for Ami's mother to drive her and a friend to Gulfport for the concert in March.

"Ami's mother said, during the course of the three-hour drive from their home, the girls practiced screaming for the concert."

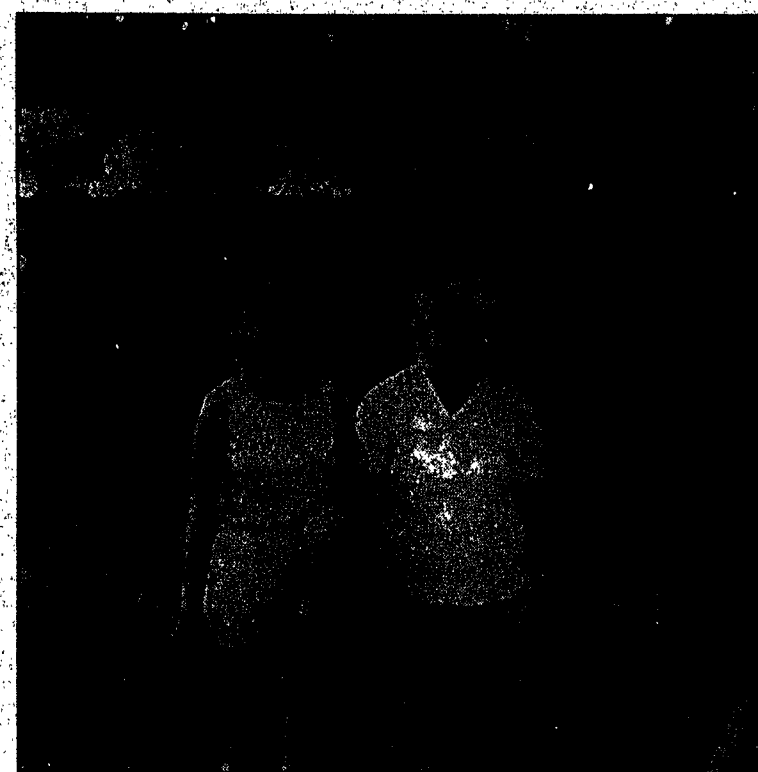

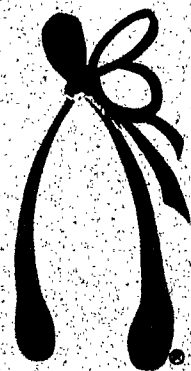

"The hotel room and dinner in a local restaurant was donated. A limousine was hired to drive them to the concert."

"When the girls drove up to the coliseum, the kids waiting outside thought the girls were 'The New Kids on the Block' because they were in a limousine and practically mobbed the car. They loved it!"

"We were lucky to get a backstage pass and the girls met three of the five 'New Kids'."

Felicia, age 9, of Gautier, is the child the Biloxi office is occupied with presently.

"Felicia does not know what she wants," Bryant

Christy's wish is granted when she and her mother visit her grandmother in Pennsylvania

Welcome Center offers room reservation service

BY T. H. (DOC) TOUPS

The introduction of a new reservation service offered by the Hancock County Welcome Center seems to be a popular success, according to Bobbie Hawthorne, center manager.

The service, available through all of the state's nine welcome centers, provides travelers with confirmed hotel/motel reservations and lists all amenities available.

The welcome centers are a function of the Department of Economic and Community Development's Division of Tourism Development. The new service represents an attempt to attract more tourist dollars without placing additional financial burdens on the state budget.

According to Hawthorne, "All participating hotels and motels have agreed to be called collect or have provided a toll-free number."

Additionally, the Hancock County Center reduces expenditure through the extensive use of community volunteers. Members of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program are helping to institute the new reservation program.

Hawthorne feels this represents another opportunity to introduce the traveling public to the state. "We try to get them off of the interstate," she said. "A lot of people just don't know what Mississippi is all about."

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

Diamondhead Riding Club

By Joyce Badgett

The March meeting of the Diamondhead Riding Club was Thursday, March 21. Members were planning the May 11 Diamondhead Horse Show. The show will be at the Harrison County Fairgrounds starting at 10 a.m.

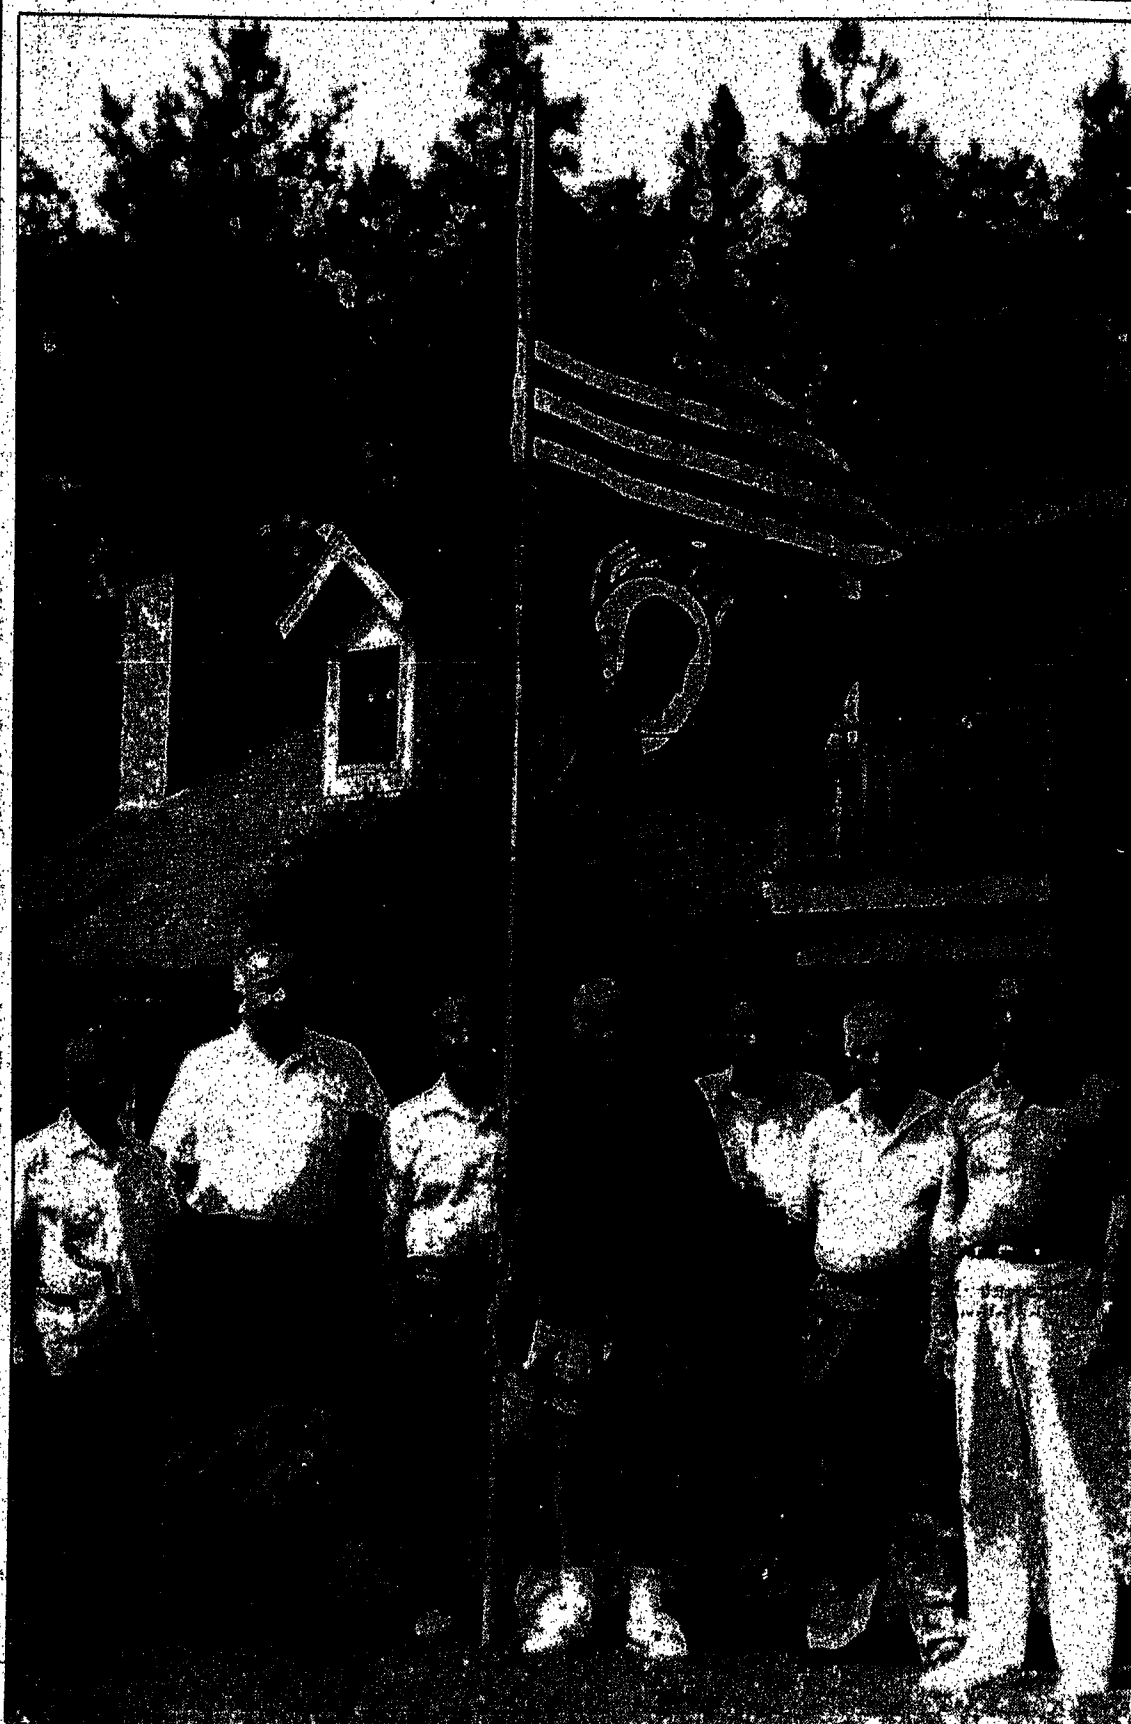

Four new members were welcomed into the club. They are Vickie Alford, John Porter, Dee Glorissa and Emile DiGiovanni.

The highlight of the meeting was a presentation of fashions for the show ring by Dee Glorissa. Heather Lott modeled her royal blue outfit made by Dee. Dee presented sequin vests, ultra suede chaps, tux shirts and sequin bow ties. Members were shown different outfits to be worn in the classes.

On March 2 the South Mississippi Horse Show and Rodeo Association held its annual awards banquet and dance. Debbie Whitfield was presented a 45 High Point Trophy for Halter; Heather Lott was presented the Sportsmanship Award, and Joyce Badgett was presented with a 45 High Point Trophy in Open Gaited. There was lots of good food and dancing.

On March 9 the association held its first horse show. The barn was busy the week before. Everyone wanted to be perfect. And, with Maria Lott's luck, Diamondhead Riding Club drew an early work schedule. The day was perfect, sunny, cool and dry. It was great to see old friends and lots of new faces. The DRC members placed in every class they entered.

For information, call the Diamondhead Stables, 255-9707 or Joyce Badgett, 255-7576.

Crosby Arboretum announces new programs, extended hours

The Crosby Arboretum has announced it is officially open to visitors on a full-time basis.

According to Edward L. Blake Jr., director, the arboretum will be open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. It will be closed Mondays.

Blake said a number of new wrinkles have been added to the arboretum's activities that will facilitate public viewing of its varied nature paths and native plant habitats.

"Self-guided brochures will be available to visitors," said Blake. Larger groups who wish to schedule a tour in advance by calling or writing, a trained guide will be available.

There will also be an expanded program of events this year that will include a series of special lectures on native plants and entertainment by performing art groups at the Arboretum's award-winning Pinecote Pavilion.

The pavilion was completed in 1986 by noted architect Fay Jones, FAIA. Twilight talks will be featured under the pavilion at night.

Also included in the expanded program will be visits to plantation homes and gardens in Louisiana and private Mississippi gardens. There will also be a walking tour of selected patios in New Orleans' historic French Quarter. For naturalists, weekend field trips will be led by botanists to study the Gulf Coast's plants.

Blake said that individuals or groups interested in visiting the Arboretum and participating in its special programs should contact the office at telephone 799-2311 or 798-6961.

Chronic Fatigue Syndrome or Fibrositis?

Nearly everyone has heard something about the Chronic Fatigue Syndrome (CFS). It seems to be in the news all the time, and the news doesn't always seem good.

Basically the syndrome is, as the name implies, marked by a profound sense of tiredness. Not only after a day of work, but even in the morning. In fact, the sensation of fatigue may be so overwhelming that going to work at all may become nearly impossible.

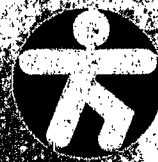

Other common symptoms that are common with CFS are fevers, swollen lymph glands, muscle weakness and of course, joint and muscle problems are also frequent.

There are a lot of theories about what causes this problem. Some believe the possibility of chronic infection, such as Epstein-Barr Virus (EBV) or Cytomegalovirus (CMV) playing a role. While these are only theories, in fact, they have attracted a lot of media attention. Unfortunately, the news isn't always good, there is no real treatment for these viruses.

Fibrositis or Fibromyalgia is a very common syndrome treated very frequently by rheumatologists. Patients are often referred to the rheumatologist after the initial evaluation fails to find an explanation for the patients' complaints. These complaints are often similar to those of CFS patients. In fact, some believe that they may be the same thing. There are good treatments for Fibrositis and many patients find relief.

If you or someone you know is suffering with these problems, we recommend you ask your family doctor for a referral to our office for an appointment.
